

country, anxious to hear the trial.

The first four veniremen examined swore they believed the defendants guilty. Two of them were discharged. Senator Kern demanded the third be dismissed. District Attorney Miller objected.

"These men evidently do not mean to serve," he said. "I wish your honor would hold them a while so we may find out how many perjurers there are here."

"There is a grand jury for men who commit perjury to evade jury service," said Judge Anderson.

Then he made the last two talesmen remain in their seats while the examination of others went on. The examination of the first four took two hours.
